

Cyber Extension: Past Experiences and Future Prospects

U.I. Dissanayake¹, R. Wijekoon² and H.V.A. Wickramasuriya³

^{1,3}Department of Agricultural Extension, University of Peradeniya, Peradeniya

²Assistant Director Audio Visual Center, Department of Agriculture, Peradeniya

uvasarad@pdn.ac.lk¹, avcentre@sltnet.lk², heshanw@pdn.ac.lk³

Abstract

This paper attempts to analyze the recently implemented cyber agricultural extension project of the Department of Agriculture, providing some insight on farmers' responses to the computer based learning resources. It explains farmers' perception towards cyber extension approach, their willingness to obtain information through cyber extension approach compared to other agriculture information sources, and problems and limitations in implementing cyber extension. At the end a brief overview of the future prospectus of the cyber extension project is included.